

Demographic Diversity in Natural Resource Science Professions

Towards an Inclusive Scientific Democracy

139th Annual American Fisheries Society Conference

When: September 2-3, 2009

Location: Nashville, TN

Purpose: The goal of the symposium is to address some of the academic and occupational realities pertaining to under-represented populations in fisheries and natural resource science professions. The symposium will highlight some of the challenges and successes of existing programs for students from under-represented groups with aptitudes for the sciences.
